CAPTURE MATAMORAS

Brownsville, Tex., June 4.—The last desperate stand by the decimated garrison of regulars and volunteers entrenched around the main plaza in Matamoros was made at 3 o'clock this morning. At this time the men, who had been in the trenches since before 10 o'clock the day before, or nineteen hours, without a moment for eating, having burned up the last cartridge in their valiant fight to hold the city against Blanco's men had to quit. They did not surrender, they merely ran out of powder and balls and the fight came to an end. Notwithstanding this, Blanco's men did not attempt to force the center of the city until 5 o'clock this morning, when they advanced firm upon the Market Plaza, which they had occupied at 3 o'clock Tuesday. They advanced, firing as they came fearing that some of the federals might be still entrenched behind the bags of stone and dirt. They hoped thus to draw the fire of any lurking enemy, but failed to find a single man to oppose them. At 6 o'clock they took charge of the city entirely, although it had virtually been theirs since the fighting of the early night.

The most remarkable part of the fight put up by the Federal garrison and the volunteers within the city limits is the fact that at most part of the day's fighting and during all that of the long night of incessant vigilance and continuous firing, they were practically without superior officers. Inquiry in Matamoros today elicited the information that Dr. Barragan, Mayor of the city, who was reported in last night's dispatches to have been killed because of the fact that he could not be found in Matamoros, made his escape to the American side in the afternoon.

At the Big Tent.

Dubinsky Bros. Stock Co., will present at their big tent tonight the sensational melo-drama "Midnight in Chinatown." The play is an interesting one, showing you how opium is smuggled into this country and what effect it has on the people that use it. There is a lot of good comedy in the play. Specialties between acts will be changed. Music by the ladies orchestra starts at 7:45.

A. C. Bray and family were in the city today from Wetumka. They were en route to Norman where Prof. Bray will attend the state university.

WOOL LOBBY IS ACTIVE

NEVADA SENATOR SAYS IT IS TRYING TO INTIMIDATE SENATORS.

Washington, June 4.—That the wool growers of Nevada are maintaining a lobby that to his knowledge "is making a deliberate, premeditated and sustained effort to intimidate the representatives of Nevada in Congress to vote for a duty on wool and sugar, by seeking to create the deception that the people of Nevada are demanding such duties was the contribution today of Senator Pittman of Nevada to the lobby inquiry by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

In this manner was there positive and detailed testimony given in substantiation of President Wilson's charge that the lobby is conducting a campaign of misrepresentation to create the belief in congress that public sentiment is opposed to certain features of the bill. Yesterday a number of senators, including Penrose of Pennsylvania, clearly established the truth of the charge that the tariff lobby in Washington, in connection with the pending bill, is exceedingly numerous, while the testimony of Senator Kenyon, showing the attempts of lobbyists, whether paid or working for self-interest, to get on the blind side of Congressmen through dinners and other social attentions, bore out the charge of the insidious character of the lobby.

"I don't mind a man making an argument to me on the tariff, but what I object to is the deception practiced by the wool growers in my state," Senator Pittman told the Overman committee. "I know personally that the sentiment of the people of Nevada is opposed to a duty on sugar and wool; that but a few persons engaged in the wool business are deeply interested in schedule K. Yet the wool growers are seeking to deceive their representatives into believing that a large majority of the people of Nevada are demanding a tariff duty on wool, which I know to be untrue, and are trying to make it appear that wool-growing is the principal industry of the state, which I know is not the case. It is this deception which to my mind establishes argument for or against legislation and lobbying in an objectionable sense."

Again and again Senator Pittman denounced this character of lobbying, which was done mainly by mail and telegraph, as "deliberate deception and misrepresentation," and as "highly offensive and objectionable." Senator Pommerene said between 200 and 300 men had seen him in regard to the tariff bill, and that one manufacturing concern had caused to be sent to him 3,000 letters pleading for protection on sugar.

Senator Ransdell of Louisiana thought the sugar growers' lobby is an entirely proper one but that the lobbying of Frank C. Lowry of New York for free sugar is the only objectionable lobbying that he has encountered in connection with the pending bill.

Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin testified to owning the majority of stock in a lumber company that produces 150,000,000 feet of lumber a year, and also has interest in the paper business.

Senator Owen said a patent medicine lobby last year that spent $50,000 in an advertising campaign defeated his bill for a Department of Health.

The subcommittee is near the end of its senatorial witnesses and will shortly call the lobbyists who have already been subpoenaed. This list is so large that the committee will have to sit for a considerable time beyond the ten days first allotted to the investigation.

STUDENTS ADOPT RESOLUTIONS

CONCISE STATEMENT OF CONDI- TIONS PREVAILING AT THE ADA NORMAL.

Whereas, the enrollment on this the third day of the second week of the summer term of the East Central State Normal at Ada, Oklahoma, is now 553 teachers representing 44 counties and 6 states and exceeding in number by far the enrollment of any preceding year, and;

Whereas, the building with its twenty recitation rooms is taxed beyond its capacity with classes reciting regularly in every lobby, office and other available space, and with one hundred additional chairs borrowed from the Ada City High school now in use, and;

Whereas the equipment, especially in the departments of Domestic Science, Domestic Art and Agriculture is not sufficient to supply the demands of the teachers now in attendance for experimental work, thus occasioning the necessity for teachers,

If you Value Your Eyesight, see An Expert Optometrist I have spent 20 years preparing myself to perfect the refraction of the eye. My modern equipment, backed by this long experience is your guarantee of satisfaction. A. D. COON, Ramsey's Drug Store, Ada, Okla.

asking to be enrolled in those departments, to be turned away, and;

Whereas, the legislature of Oklahoma at its recent session, upon recommendation of the State Department of Education, has sought to raise the standard of the teaching profession by additional subjects to the requirement for recertificates of all grades.

Therefore, be it resolved by the teachers of Johnson county in charge of the Chapel hour on this the 5th day of June, 1913, that we ask the teachers here assembled from other counties in the East Central State Normal district to join us in an effort to bring to the attention of his excellency, Hon. Lee Cruce, Governor of Oklahoma, and others in the state either in public position or in private life the real situation with reference to the educational problems now confronting us; that we endorse the efforts of the department of Education and of the Legislature to elevate the profession of teaching by raising the standards of requirement for service, that in view of this advanced standard we feel that the teachers should have opportunities for equipping themselves to meet these conditions as they may arise; that we extend to the Governor a cordial invitation to visit the Normal now in session and investigate for himself the conditions as represented herein.

We submit this in the full confidence that the people of this state will come to realize the value of the work done in the East Central State Normal and will not lend their support to any effort to destroy the institution.

Unanimously adopted by teachers by rising vote.

ROAD WILL BE EX- TENDED TO CHICKASHA

Anadarko, Okla., June 5.—Announcement is made by officials of the Clinton & Oklahoma Western railroad, which is projecting a line from Clinton to Chickasha, to connect there with the Oklahoma Central, that the proposed line will pass through Anadarko. The Clinton & Oklahoma Western was built by Oklahoma men, without any outside capital, and is now in operation from Clinton to Strong City, a distance of fifty-five miles. It is said to be paying a very fair dividend on the money invested.

The Oklahoma Central is in operation from Lehigh to Chickasha and the building of this line would give a direct line from the coal fields practically to the west line of Oklahoma, as the Cheyenne Short line, another independent proposition, is now in course of construction between Strong City and Cheyenne.

Special Officer Ed Brents was looking after business matters at Holdenville today.

Vengeance may belong to the Lord, and he may reply, just as the scripture declares, but the average person is always ready to expedite matters by tendering his assistance when he thinks vengeance is called for, especially if it applies to one of his enemies.

THE WEAKLING.

In all the broad plan of the universe no place was created for the weakling. He seems to be the product of a later period and a creature never meant to have place in the general plan of things. It is nothing but right that laws should be enacted for his protection but no human statute can add to his courage, make him look with less fear on life or cause him to have a stronger feeling of self dependence and blame himself and not the world that he has failed to make good.

When I say weakling I mean the man who is afraid of life, one who doubts his ability to cope with the world and carry his share of society's burdens; one who thinks the world owes him a living and is content to depend on others and drift with the tide and harbor a resentful feeling against others whose exertions have placed them above him. Life to such a one is usually a nightmare and as he goes through the world with a sort of apology on his face, in every movement as though begging the pardon of his fellows for encumbering a portion of the earth's surface, or whining about misfortunes of his own making, he elicits, not the sympathy but the contempt of others.

Why is such a man a weakling? As a rule it is due to his own slothfulness and unwillingness to pay the price demanded by nature for success in life. All cannot be mental giants any more than they can all be seven feet in height, nor can every man in an army be an officer, but this does not excuse a man for being a camp follower instead of grasping a gun and taking his place on the firing line by putting forth his best efforts any man can rise to some degree above the environments which may retard his march, for the victory in life does not go to the strong and swift as often as it does to the one who with dogged persistence refuses to be held down by his environment and who in life's battle proves himself worthy of the confidence and respect of his fellows. Such a one is not deterred by obstacles.

Life is indeed a great conflict, but the victory is not always to the strongest. It is the persistent one who finally wins, but for him skulking in the rear, instead of taking his place in the line of battle, there is little to promise.

A QUEER COLONY OF GREEK MONKS

Athens.—It is reported that the monks of Mount Athos, the celebrated monastery on the coast of the Aegean Sea, are planning to send the imperial robe and crown used by the Byzantine emperors now in their possession, to Athens for the use of King Constantine in his coronation. It is said that the crown, which is studded with gems, may become the permanent Grecian crown. The robe which is covered with beaten gold, weighs fifty pounds.

Among the picturesque survivals of an age long past, bringing the lapse of centuries with unchanged customs and venerable domiciles, is the monastic republic of Mount Athos with its 935 churches and chapels amid the olive groves. In that Eveless Eden for no woman or even a female animal is allowed to live there—live five thousand monks belonging to thirty orders.

The buildings with the exception of the buried dwellings of Pompeii, are the oddest specimens of domestic architecture in Europe. Tradition places the date of the oldest building on the mountain at about 300 A. D. In the libraries are illustrated manuscripts of rare value and the greatest collection of paintings of the Byzantine school.

Mount Athos is about eighty miles from Saloniki. At the time of the Byzantine Empire it was the center of Greek theology and learning. All the customs of this early period have been preserved faithfully. It is still the storehouse of Greek manuscripts relating to the New Testament. In the original Greek are various versions and interpretations of the acts of Christ.

Mount Athos is a real republic. The monks govern themselves without interference of Turkey or any other country. The only police force is the men who patrol the coast to keep out women and men who have no permit to enter the sacred confines. Only those who have a permit from the Greek patriarch in Constantinople are allowed to cross the border. The holder of the letter must present it at Kargos, the village capital of the peninsula.

The Daughter of David Kerr

By Harry King Tootle

Illustrations by Ray Walters

(Copyright, 1914, by A. C. McClung & Co.)

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Gloria Kerr, a motherless girl who has spent most of her life at school, arrives at her father's home in Belmont. David Kerr is the political boss of the town and is anxious to prevent his daughter learning of his real character.

CHAPTER II—Kendall, representing the Chicago packers, is negotiating with Judge Gilbert, Kerr's chief adviser, for a valuable franchise. They fear the opposition of Joe Wright, editor of the reform paper.

CHAPTER III—Kerr asks the assistance of Judge Gilbert in introducing Gloria to Belmont society and promises to help him put through the packers' franchise and let him have all the graft.

CHAPTER IV—Gloria meets Joe Wright at the Gilberts. It appears they are on intimate terms, having met previously in a touring party in Europe.

CHAPTER V—Gloria twists Wright on his failure to keep an engagement to meet her in Paris. He explains that the death of his mother prevented his going to Paris.

CHAPTER VI—The Gilberts invite Gloria to stay with them pending the return of the Kerr home.

CHAPTER VII—One society bad who refused to meet Gloria is forced to do so when her father is made to feel Kerr's power.

CHAPTER VIII—Wright begins his fight against the proposed franchise in the columns of his paper, the Belmont News.

The editor of the News recognized that it was only a Pyrrhic victory he had won by securing the shelving of the franchise for the present. He was not blind to the fact that the franchise would bob up serenely after election. Now that he had aroused the town and had committed himself to a fight against the ring, he determined to carry it on. It had not been his purpose, before the franchise bill had drawn his fire, to enter with great heat into the coming election campaign, but he saw that the impetus given the opponents of the machine would carry them well on toward victory at the polls. Carrying the election would be a great advertisement for the paper. If it lost, the News could not be any worse off than it was now.

Kerr forgot none of the precautions he had taken in being prepared to embarrass Wright in his work if the occasion should arise. The merchants who, through Kerr's influence, had patronized the News, suddenly withdrew their advertising. Many who had been in before the paper had changed hands now ceased to use its columns. If a store was using the News and furnishing supplies to the workhouse or the jail, it faced the alternative of losing a fat account or confining its advertising to the Banner. The proprietor, being part of the machine, else nothing would ever have been purchased from him for the city's use, promptly gave up the News. It was the same with meat markets. Other lines of business were approached in other ways, but the result was always the same—a loss of advertising revenue to the News. Even the railroads were derelict in delivering their white paper, and Wright spent many an anxious hour tracing cars from the mill to find them lost in the Belmont yards.

One valuable source of information was developed by the News in a former machine hanger-on named Jack Durken. He came to work in the circulation department of the paper, and Wright first heard of him through the circulation manager. At Wright's request the man came to his office and from his story the editor gathered that he had not received fair treatment at the hands of the other gangsters. He had lived in the disreputable first ward, and had had trouble with Mike Noonan, a ward leader. For his work he had been made a street cleaning inspector, but after having incurred the ire of Noonan had lost his job.

Nothing the enemy did was able to keep Wright from publishing a paper every day. Every issue was a constant reminder to Belmont that things were not as they should be and that the way to remedy conditions was to defeat the city machine at the polls. The editor spent all his daylight hours at his office, and often was not until late in the night in conference with various leaders. The opponents of Kerr had some old scores to settle, and this was their chance. The postmaster was usually to be found on Kerr's side, although under cover, but this time he could not afford to use his influence for his party in city affairs—even for a consideration. The boss knew the game too well to press him.

In the last days of the campaign the anti-Kerr leaders learned with surprise that Senator McIntire, their state boss, was coming to Belmont for a day. They had not sent for him, and were at a loss to account for the visit. He had not taken any one into his confidence, merely saying he was coming on business. Why he should journey from Washington to Belmont for so short a stay they could not understand. He gave it out that he was making a flying visit to his home, but he came straight to Belmont. Only two men besides the senator knew his mission, the emissary who carried the message to Washington and the man who sent for him. David Kerr wanted to see him.

It was only three days before election when Senator McIntire visited Belmont. He went to the Hotel Belmont and took a suite of rooms, but did not register. After talking to David Kerr over the telephone, he ordered an early luncheon for two served in his private parlor. Kerr arrived before the table was spread and immediately began to explain the situation. All through the meal the two men talked, McIntire questioning and Kerr explaining.

Practical politics was the business of Senator James McIntire just as it was of Mr. David Kerr. Jim McIntire liked to pose before the public and to make flamboyant speeches. Kerr preferred to sit in his dingy real estate office and pull the strings that made the puppets dance. To him speech making and posing were like the tinsel on a drum major's uniform. He cared only for power, it was immaterial to him how gaudy glory was apportioned.

"It looks like he's got you in bad, Dave," said the senator. "I don't see how I can help you this trip."

Kerr slowly set down his glass of water and straightened up in his chair, for he knew that the deal was now under way. He had played fair with Jim McIntire and told him just the exact situation.

"Lots o' things can happen, Jim. I've decided to get his paper, but I need votes. It's too close to election. You ain't going to let him play you for a sucker. We've got to clean him, or he'll turn on you just as he has on me."

"I guess I ought to wait till he does," was the cautious response. "I've got enough troubles without going out and lassoing a young grizzly bear."

"He ain't got no party," urged Kerr, "and you know how it happens in them towns where such a paper gets a start. He's got these fools in Belmont believing he's George Washington come to life again."

"I'm sorry for you, Dave, but honestly I don't see where I can help out any. It would give me too black an eye, because the boys here have set their hearts on winning this time."

Kerr saw that McIntire was forcing his hand, and he decided to approach the situation from another side.

"The next legislature 'll elect your successor," he suggested. "I'm going to be my own successor," asserted the senator.

"It's going to be a hot fight," continued Kerr, "unmistakable of McIntire's remark. 'The state will swing back to our party, but nobody knows how the legislature 'll be on joint ballot.'"

"It's going to be for me if I can have anything to say about it."

"Well, you don't seem to be going about it very actively," retorted Kerr with the nearest approach to sarcasm he permitted himself during the interview. "Even if the legislature is controlled by your party, you've got a fight on your hands. There's Congressman Jenkinson and old man Graham down in Washington County. He's almost as strong as you are, and his part of the state ain't had no recognition for a long time."

McIntire did not answer at once. He got up from the table and walked to the window. When at last he turned to Kerr the question had been gone over thoroughly in his mind.

"Well, Dave," he asked with a smile, "what's the answer?"

"You've got to knife your ticket, so's these fool reformers can't carry Belmont."

"What'd I get out of it?" drawled out the senator.

"Seven votes in the house and two in the senate."

Again the apostle of practical politics sat back and took stock of the situation. Belmont was nothing to him. It mattered nothing at all to him how the town went as far as city affairs were concerned. Nine votes were not to be despised. He was cautious, however, and wanted particulars.

"How you going to deliver?" he asked.

"We've got that many to run this fall and I'll let the opposition have it their own way. Name your men now if you want to."

"That many's bound to make the legislature ours on joint ballot."

Kerr knew this, but he was quite willing to change the political complexion of the legislature of a great state, perhaps hamper the governor in wise and necessary legislation and keep the state from having a senator of its own choice, all to hold Belmont for his own. McIntire was no less willing to change victory into defeat and hand the city over to the rapacity of the Interurban Railway Company, only to retain his senatorial office.

"All right," he consented, "but you've got to do two things: take care of some of the boys and muzzle the News. I can't have that paper making trouble for me."

"I'll take care of the boys all right, and I've told you what I'm going to do—I'm going to buy the News."

"Can you?"

"I've got to have it, and I don't care how, but it's got to be mine."

"Got any idea?" asked the senator. "No, but every man's got his price. Jim, in some form or other." If he had time for reflection, David Kerr would have enjoyed this remark, since it was given a humorous turn by the fact that he had just discovered the price of the junior senator from his own state.

"I'll go up to the postoffice and call on some of the boys," said McIntire as Kerr rose to go. "I'll have to tell Davidson and Peake. When you get word to them that the News is friendly, they'll pass the word along. You've got three days; that ought to be plenty of time, but you must have the paper or the deal's off. We'll take it!"

"THE MARBLE HEART"

BASEBALL CHATTER.

Yale winning 17 straight games just about proves that the Elis are the class among college nines of 1913.

A young brother of "Smoky Joe" Wood, of the Red Sox, has joined the Brockton team, of the little old New England League.

Manager McGraw, of the Giants, has signed Pitcher White and Catcher Mullaney, the star battery of the Georgetown University nine.

Thraillkill, Womack, Stuck, Snapp, Gutkecht, Killebrew and Fauroutte are a few of the names found in the line-ups of Kansas League teams.

Manager Charley Dooin, of the Phillies, took a mean slap at the Super-bas, Pirates and Cubs, when he said that the Giants are the only team he feared.

Otto Jordan, the old Brooklyn star and later pilot of the Atlanta Crackers, is managing the Valdosta (Ga.) team of the Empire State League.

It is not safe to tell any American League pitcher that Ty Cobb's eyesight is on the blink, when the batting averages show that Ty is hitting for .500 or better.

The Filipino baseball team, which is to perform in this country this summer, has a pitcher by the name of Japopilla. That's a nice name for a shooter of the pill.

The Washington infield has been in a bad way this season. McBride, Candil, Laporte and Morgan have all been injured at different times and forced to lay off the job.

Two old-time big leaguers, Manager "Yeffy" Davis, of the Winona team, and Manager Bob Unglaub, of the Minneapolis team, are leading the new Northern League in batting.

Boston bleacherites seem to delight in bawling out Bill Sweeney. Bill is playing as fine an all-around game as any man in the business, and yet the bugs are not satisfied.

Leading the American Association in both club batting and club fielding doesn't seem to get the St. Paul team anything. The team has been resting in the second division nearly all season.

Milan of Washington, who is leading the American League in base stealing, has stolen twice the number of bases as has Myers, of Boston, who is leading the National League in pilfered sacks.

T. H. Clark and wife and Walter Clark and wife returned Wednesday from their visit to Mr. Clark's old home at Owensboro, Kentucky. It was his first trip back there in thirty-two years, and naturally many changes were observed. Mr. Clark says very little rain has fallen there since the spring floods, but the people are hard at work repairing the damage done and putting in a crop on the overflowed lands.

This evening John Bunny will be the star performer at the Majestic in a laughable comedy entitled, Bunny Blarneyed. Bunny while traveling in Ireland kisses the famous Blarney stone and becomes still better natured than ever, although John never was anybody's grouch. Another good one will be "The Engineer's Daughter," which is a thrilling railroad story.

Always Fairy Tales.

There has never been a language spoken that has not been used for telling fairy tales. Whether in hot lands or cold, among savages or the most cultivated nations—why, not a moment passes in which some one, somewhere, is not telling a fairy tale, or listening to one, or reading one, or perhaps writing a new one. Which makes it delightfully probable that we shall always have them with us, however scarce the fables may have made themselves in these prosaic and practical days.—St. Nicholas.

A Good Salesman.

"Well, Jingle," said the manager, "did you make the sale?" "Yes," said the salesman. "I couldn't get the darned old machine to run over half speed, but I arranged with one of the town constables to arrest us for exceeding the speed limit, and old Skeels fell for it right away."

SAYS GETTYSBURG RATE IS TOO HIGH

Oklahoma City, June 5.—Unless the railroads belonging to the Southwestern Passenger association which controls rates west of the Mississippi river, will grant reductions on the same proportional mileage basis as those of the Southeastern association, it is possible that the participants in the battle of Gettysburg now living in Oklahoma will not attend the reunion at the expense of the state. This is the statement made by Brigadier General John Threadgill, who is a member of the Gettysburg commission. The commission appointed to pass on the qualifications of those veterans who will be sent to the Gettysburg reunion, will meet here Thursday morning and hear the rates offered by representatives of a number of railroads.

Dr. Threadgill stated Wednesday that some of the representatives of the railroads with service between Oklahoma points and the east had made announcements of the rates offered and that they were unfair in comparison with the rates offered by railroads from Memphis and St. Louis to Gettysburg.

According to the statements of Dr. Threadgill, the best rate that has been offered is $42.50 for the round trip from Oklahoma City. This rate will not permit any stopover privileges at any intermediate point. He stated that the rates granted from points east of the Mississippi are 2 cents a mile for the round trip. From Memphis the fare to Gettysburg, according to the rates granted by the Southern Passenger association, will be $21.45 for the round trip.

NORMAL ENROLLMENT TOTALS 553

President Briles informs the News that he was in error in the figures of the enrollment of the Normal given the News Wednesday. The total should have been 553. Every department is now crowded and when the full attendance is enrolled the chances are that the Ada normal will have the largest of any of the six normals of the state.

For some reason the other schools are not having much to say about their enrollment.

The resolutions endorsing the Ada normal and inviting the fullest investigation proposed by the Johnston county teachers and adopted by the entire student body, appearing in another column are worth thinking about, for the expression in a concise form the real status of affairs, so far as the Ada normal is concerned. Like all others in this district the Johnston county teachers are intensely loyal to the Ada school, and are to be commended for thus taking the lead in a matter of such importance.

Please do not ask to enroll children in the training school at the normal. We positively can not take another pupil. C. W. BRILES.

Afraid He'd Stop.

In Henry County, Illinois, recently a young woman who was suing her former sweetheart for breach of promise was put on the witness stand and the lawyers, as usual, began making all sorts of inquisitive interrogatories.

You say, remarked one, that the defendant frequently sat very close to you?

Yessir, was the reply, with a hectic flush.

How close?

Close enough so's one cheer was all the sitin' room we needed.

And you say he put his arm around your waist?

No, I didn't.

What did you say, then?

I said he put both arms aroun' me. Then what?

He hugged me.

Very hard?

Yep, he did. So hard that I came purty near hollerin' right out.

Why didn't you holler?

'Cause.

That's no answer. Be explicit, please; because what?

'Cause I was afeard he'd stop.

University Extension Will Be made Effective.

Oklahoma University is to follow the lead of all progressive universities in having an effective extension of the education work for the benefit of those beyond the college walls. The state legislature recently appropriated money with which to do this important work. President Brooks has already yappointed two of the most prominent educators of the state to direct this extension of the educational benefits of the institution to the rest of the people. Dr. J. W. Scroggins, of Kingfisher college, and Dr. A. C. Scott, formerly head of the Oklahoma A. & M. College, have been named director and assistant director respectively of this important work. Under the direction of these men the knowledge of the trained specialists of the University will be at the service of the people of the state free of charge. The whole work will be made very effective and will do much in the popularization of learning in Oklahoma.

ADA TAKES THIRD GAME

ASBURY PITCHES FOR ELKS—SCORE 9 TO 2 IN SEVEN INNINGS.

The Ada Elks seem to favor making things unanimous and in line with this policy copped the third game with Ardmore by a score of 9 to 2 in the seven innings played Wednesday afternoon.

The Ada team had the good fortune to secure their old pitcher, Asbury, and he showed up in his old form, striking out 10 men as against 4 by Greenwood of the opposing team. The game was called at the close of the seventh inning in order that the Ardmore boys might catch the train for home.

Summary of the game: 2-base hits, Taylor, Kiser; 3-base hits, Kiser, Haile; home run, Merrill.

Left on bases: Ada 5, Ardmore 4. First base on errors: Ada 6, Ardmore 1.

Batteries—Ada: Asbury and Kiser; Ardmore: Greenwood and Cheney. Umpire: Ellis.

GIN COMPANY HOLDS BUSINESS MEETING

The Universe an Accident.

The universe, together with its parts, is nothing but a number of accidents, ever changing and being renewed at every breath and linked together in a single substance and at each instant disappearing and being replaced by a similar set. In consequence of this rapid succession, the spectator is deceived into the belief that the universe is a permanent existence.—By Nur-Addin 'Abd-Alrahman Jami.

Boy Owes Life to Dog.

A number of young boys were playing on the banks of the Bolton and Bury canal at Pendleton, near Manchester, England, the other afternoon when one of them slipped into the canal, which is nine or ten feet deep. ## MERGER OF PUBLIC UTILITY PLANTS

Oklahoma City, Ok., June 4.—A $3,000,000 public utility merger was consummated here today, when announcement was made that the Public Service Company of Oklahoma, organized by Samuel Insull, Martin Insull and Fred W. Insull of Chicago, had acquired electric light and gas plants in Guthrie, Tulsa, Vinita, Atoka, Lehigh, Chickasha and Coalgate. It expects to add plants in other cities later on. The company is also negotiating for the plant at Lawton, and if it is acquired, which now seems certain, it will mean the building of a street railway at Lawton and the construction of an interurban between Lawton and Fort Sill, which has been greatly desired by citizens of Lawton. There are now no street railways among the properties acquired by the Insull interests, although the company's charter authorizes it to operate electric light, gas, street railway, interurban, ice and water plants.

Fred W. Insull, president of the company, has opened general offices of the company here. Martin J. Insull is vice president of the company, Burton French, secretary, and R. F. Frank, treasurer. The directors include Samuel Insull and Martin J. Insull, Chicago; Fred W. Insull, Oklahoma City; Paul M. Gallaway, Tulsa, and Galen Crow, Guthrie. Gallaway and Crow were former owners of the plants in their respective cities. The Insulls are prominently connected with electrical enterprises in the Middle West and are well known in that business. Announcement is made that all the plants acquired by the company will be refitted with up-to-date equipment.

JONES CHAPEL

Well, brother Editor, we are laboring hard to bring things to pass. We would like to have just a little rain.

Almost every body from here went to the Decoration Day services at Egypt. The Egypt people know how to feed good. Wonder why E. Ed. was not there.

Rev. Mullinax is still working. He says he is not afraid of people slandering him by accusing him of working.

Well, brother Editor, there is not much said these days about road working. I for one, do not believe it best for the business men to close their doors and go out on the road. We think the best thing for them and for all, would be for every business man in Ada, and of course that includes doctors, lawyers and all the court officers and editors, just to donate $2.50 apiece to the roads and let the farmers take their teams and you would see more dirt moved. Of course the court officers may not agree to this just now, but a little later on near the next campaign they will.

Rev. Mullinax is wanting cotton choppers just now. Does look like some of the boys would go and help the preacher.

Lon Mosure has a few more cockle burrs. He says they came up too thick to do well.

The Rev. Ferrier preached at the Chapel Sunday and Sunday night. Come again, brother.

W. C. T. U. Will Present Portrait

The W. C. T. U. will on Wednesday morning at the chapel hour, present a portrait of Miss Francis E. Willard to the normal. All invited to be present and witness the presentation.

Dr. S. M. Richey of Francis, was an Ada visitor today.

Blood Poison On The Run

Remarkable Remedy That Drives Every Particle of Poison Completely Out of Your Entire System.

It is simply astonishing the way contagious germs scatter and leave your blood clean and pure.

Poison in the blood used to break out into the most unsightly sores, boils, abscesses and ulcers, but since the introduction of S. S. S. there is no more trouble. And even if it is only a slight attack it would eventually mean loss of hair, loose teeth, sore gums, mucous patches, copper spots and the most intense degree of agony, if S. S. S. were not used. Of course some cases of Contagious Blood Poison do not exhibit the extreme superficial effect but the trouble is they are apt to do so in just a day. The eyesight fades, the hair falls out, the bones become ulcerated, a thousand and one fierce, unsightly symptoms ensue and then there can be no question as to the nature of the disease. It is very unfortunate that so many sufferers lose all nerve, all self control, and the first thing they do is to throw themselves into the clutches of those who take all their money, fill their veins and arteries with Mercury, Iodide of Potash, Arsenic or other mineral poisons and practically wreck their lives. S. S. S. will give your blood a complete bath, purify it, overcome the danger done by mineral drugs, soothe and strengthen your stomach and in every way restore you completely. Your blood will be rich, red and pure and will stand the most rigid blood test. Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store and begin to cure yourself at once. For a book on Blood Poison or for private advice, write to the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Co., 146 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. This is one of the greatest private laboratories in the world.
